

If one is looking for an outfit which is modernly stylish as well as traditional, then the competition4 store at Andheri West would be the perfect stop for that. A well maintained large store with different sections for suits and sarees and etc, which makes it easier for customers to browse the collection they have. The wide variety of clothes follows from sarees: both western and traditional which includes the KANCHIPURAM, IKAT & SILK sarees. The store also offers different variations in ANARKALIS & TUNICS in a wide series of material from georgette to linen and others. Lehngas mostly hand embroidered were in quite a collection. The quality and designs are amazing but when it comes to being expensive, the store has nailed it. It ranges from 7K and above, and above means really above. Skirts starting from 7K goes to the 57K for one of the hand embroidered Lehnga in the store. Aura of the store is nice, so are the attendants in the store. The store also offers a small collection of jewelry and bags or one can call them jhollas as the Indian traditions carries it. In all I would recommend to shop around here for the multi-designer collection and look amazing with it.